Crime wave hits area

Three burglaries in Bay St. Louis over the last few days have caused a considerable increase in after dark police activity.

Broken into since last Friday were the new Bay Senior High School on Blue Meadow Road, Mauffray's Hardware Store on the Beach and Sunshine Gifts and Toys, 120 North Beach.

Police are also investigating a reported break-in at Waveland, two burglaries in unoccupied summer beach homes, and robbery of a Waveland.

Break-in at window was also reported on Monday night. (Cont. on Page 4-A.)

DST death throes eyed with mixed emotions

Most recent in current wave of burglaries is the hold-up of Holiday Sands Motel at 2 a.m. yesterday.

Mrs. Tommy Moran, who with Mr. Moran, manage the office, was preparing to register two male guests, when one pulled a gun and demanded she open the cash register. She complied, but does not know the actual amount taken. Mr. Moran said it was not too large a sum.

Sheriff-elect Fred Curet is investigating.

Up country Hancock North Central School sustained interest of thieves and several stores in the Flat Top area were broken into by burglars.

Damage to the Senior high School has been estimated at around $1,000 mostly in form of wrecked doors and cabinets. Cash in the amount of $234 was stolen from the school safe. The building was entered by

Sub-division plans to receive airing

A plan to create four classes of sub-divisions is to be considered by the board of supervisors at a public hearing early next week when the new members are in office.

The proposal to amend the current sub-division ordinance drawn by Louis Bissell of Planning Services, Inc., New Orleans, was presented at Monday's meeting by Rubin Griffin, attorney in behalf of several land developers. He said it is similar to what is used in several Louisiana rural areas. Developers have been complaining at the present ordinance is too tough in rural properties.

Class A sub-divisions, under the plan, would follow Bissell's formula of paved streets, utilities, etc.

Class B would entrance 20 acres sites in which only lots are still containing 5,000 square feet, provision for 14-foot streets and four-inch surface.

Class C would contain 20 lots in sites one or more sides of the lots bordering on water and bridges to carry a load of up to 6,000 pounds.

Class D would be for subdivisions of 20 or more campsites, possibly by boat only and for what no roads would be built.

County Engineer George Weller suggested bridges built to carry 1 tons and Supervisor Dolph Kellar proposed road fill costs city-county talk topic

Clarification of how the county and two municipalities are to share operating costs at the new sanitary landfill at Jackson Ridge was sought from the board of supervisors Monday by Mayors John A. Scafidi of Bay St. Louis and Carlfield Ladner of Waveland.

Scafidi proposed that the supervisors designate a member to meet with the mayors and talk over the matter, not at a regular meeting.

The Bay St. Louis mayor said the municipalities were not prepared to pick up the whole tab for the bulldozer operator and thought it was to be split three ways. Supervisor Dolph Kellar said his understanding was that the county would furnish the machinery and the municipalities the operator. Waveland has been paying a night watchman at the fill for the last month, Mayor Ladner said.

A check of invoices showed Bay St. Louis has paid the operator $64 since Aug. 1 and the county has spent $660.

The mayor's proposal was to split the costs. Mayors Ladner and Scafidi received a suggestion to the advisory committee without discussion that the city issue special street improvement bonds in a 1 or 2 year basis in the amount of $1,240. The figure is the result of an engineer's report by L. R. Piet and Associates and would provide for 20 miles of street paving, plus six and a half miles of seal coat, plus drainage improvements throughout Bay St. Louis in front of paved streets and roads.

As a result of this action, the city would be required to contribute the bonds in 1 years. If, as possible under the law, bonds are immediately refinanced for an additional 1 years, the village required would be between seven and eight mills.

Before the unanimous vote making this recommendation to the mayor and commissioners, there were several spats. The first one was the result of Gen. John L. McDonald, who spoke for the street committee that the advisory committee had never intended to establish. Gen.

McDonald, vice chairman of this committee spoke in the absence of John L. McDonald. The general questioned whether the published report by W.S. Gold man & Jordan Kaiser & Sons

for which the city had paid $6,000 was not superior to the report of Jos. Richard, Jr.

To this line of reasoning Mayor John A. Scafidi took almost violent exception stating that the city hired Richard and that was Most all hunters are up bright and early to see the first signs of fall all the time the squirrel season opened last Oct. 1 and the rabbit season Oct. 14. The first few days, rabbits are better caught after the first frost, but the duck and geese seasons open in November in Louisiana where the greatest amount of duck hunting is done.

The season also opened last Saturday for geese in Mississippi and runs through Nov. 24, opens again Nov. 29 running through Dec. 14. The season is split to take advantage of the earlier passage of flocks and snow geese. They should begin arriving this way from their wintering areas in Louisiana by mid-October. Best early goose hunting is usually along the sandbars of the Mississippi River.

While hunting ducks and geese be sure to have a hunting license and Federal duck stamp. The stamp can be purchased at the Postoffice.

Louisiana hunters should note that the Mississippi Game and Fish Commission has ready special deer and turkey permits to be used in the reciprocal agreement area between Louisiana and Mississippi. They are free and available upon request. Contact the sports shop, Vicksburg, and Warren, Miss., New Orleans, Box 124, Natchez.

The first part of the dove season wasn't too hot as there were very few doves in the fields. The second season will open Oct. 25 and close Nov. 15. There should be some doves left after the fields are harvested, and the doves are migrating now.

Eddie Rayadou, who is a founder which he taught his last pet cat to run from the muddy wings which weighed 12 pounds 12 ounces. The fish had a start in its life, when it had been speared, so it ran another. It was the last he had.

The state game and fish commission has given a break-neck of the total number of permits issued since the beginning of the first segment of the sport dove season. It is now that the state has made it taking a few more doves, otherwise getting two or three at a time, some of which doves are being pulled and taken out.

The fishing project recently built out in front of Waveland is really drawing its worth. Among those recently catching specks, white trout, croakers, red fish, etc., were Brewster Moller, Sidney and Fred Bourgeois, Walter, Turcotte, Al Mercier and Dec. Elliott. Plans are in the making to add to this project and eventually make a small boat harbor. Such a thing is needed in this section and it will mean much to the fishing sportsmen of our community.

Coast Guard drops plan to shift boundary

The commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard Oct. 21, approved the Coast Guard's Merchant Marine Council recommendation to withdraw proposed changes in Gulf of Mexico lines of demarcation separating high seas and inland waters.

Public hearings were held early in August at Corpus Christi, Galveston, Morgan City, Mobile and New Orleans. The decision was not to proceed with the proposals was based upon the objections voiced by maritime interests at the hearings.

The proposal appearing in the Federal Register of June 20, 1967, would have drawn the demarcation line closer to shore to aid mariners in determining whether international or inland "Rules of the Road" applied.

Milk sale rules told

Hay and silage fed to milk producing cows should be free of pesticides, according to O.O. Sowders, county agent.

Sowders added yesterday that any trace of chemical in milk can prevent a sale.

"Federal law prohibits pesticide residues in either milk or milk products," he said.

To keep herds free of cug- gesta cows not be let to graze out cotton fields; not be fed whole combs, and the correct time interval be allowed before animals be allowed to graze on treated crops.

Recommended pesticides only should be utilized on the farm, and on manure-created cows milk production should not be cold until after six million, or 72 hours after treatment.

Split season nets few ducks

The special nine-day Teal duck hunting season closed last Saturday.

According to reports there were very few of these ducks killed and too many seen in the Louisiana marshes where most do their hunting.

This is the third year of the teal duck experimental special season and will decide whether it will be repeated in the future.

There are three species of teal ducks, the blue wing, green wing and cinnamon. They are one of the fastest flying birds, with brightly colored plumage. Small in size, they are a hard target to kill when in flight.

The doves are the first migratory bird to come south, which was the main reason for inaugurating the special season.

Most North American ducks undergo two molts a year. During summer, feathers are in the plumage, in early fall they may wear faded plumage or show transition to winter. Male teal in full breeding plumage are not likely to be seen in September.

Teal ducks often found are killed mostly from blinds.

Local hunters are anxiously awaiting the opening of the main geese and duck seasons which are

Fallout topic of Seabee talk to Bay P-TA

Two Navy chief petty officers, instructors of the Gulfport Seabee Center's Disaster Training Department, spoke on the Effects of Nuclear Weapons to the Parent-Teacher Association at the North Bay Elementary School, Oct. 17.

Presenting the program, designed to give the latest word on fallout and shelter protection, were Chief Petty Officers H. S. McPherson and A. J. Billard.

Our presentation is the same type that Seabees who deploy to Vietnam receive," McPherson said. "This can also include training for nuclear, biological, chemical or natural disasters," he emphasized. The chiefs and their department have also trained hundreds of Seabee Center civilians in prompt actions should disasters of this type hit the Gulf Coast area.

A 20-minute film was also presented.

City budget reflects growth, cost hikes

CONVENTION PLANNERS State Commander Jack Blaylock, World War I Veteran, plans for state convention June 1968 in Waveland. Seated are Neal Higgins, state quartermaster and adjutant left, and A. C. Mercer, commander of the local post. Meeting followed by W.W.I. Veterans to the last Wednesday, which was attended by officers from all 48 states.

Bay St. Louis is growing and so is its cost of operation. The total city budget for 1967-68 announced this week by commission council is $1,575,781.04. For 1968-69 it was $1,282,834.66.

The increase of $293,947.18 was apparently made necessary by increasing costs and increasing population. The largest jump is an $80,000 increase in cost of operating the municipal school system caused by the hiring of additional teachers and an overall increase in teachers' salaries.

However, despite the 1/2 mill cut in taxes announced early this month, it is apparent that the almost $3.5 million increase in assessments will be ample to supply the money necessary to meet increasing costs. Total assessment for the entire municipal district is $17,218,688. City dwellers pay 48 1/2 mills while those in the outside district pay only 30 mills to the municipal district, 31 mills. However, in figuring the city's total taxes it must be remembered that those claiming homestead exemption are allowed to deduct 15 mills up to $5,000 valuation.

The complete budget for the present fiscal year which began on Oct. 1, 1967, and ends on Sept. 30, 1968, is published elsewhere in this issue but broken down into more understandable terms it shows $292,926.34 set up for the general fund, $6,799 for the municipal bond sinking fund, $95,944.50 for the separate school district bond sinking fund, $8,800 for parks and playgrounds, $759,305 for the municipal separate school district fund, and $412,007 for the utility system operating and maintenance fund.

vote, the Democratic Executive Committee had decided against re-opening their hearing of Oct. 2 concerning the matter.

After being informed by Lott's attorney, Randall Jones of Pass Christian, that a witness could swear to technical irregularities at these boxes, the commission decided to hear witness over the objections of J.C. Peck Maupray's attorneys, Mrs. Evelyn Hunt Conner and Joseph Benvenuti.

After presentation of verbal evidence Jones produced a prepared order and submitted that the commission should call an election for the last Saturday in October and asked they reconsider their dismissal of Lott's previous petition.

It was at this point the commission went into executive session and then declared their intention not to re-hear the petition.

As matters now stand the circuit clerk is to telegraph the chief justice asking for the appointment of an impartial outside judge to sit with a panel of three election commissioners to hear the petition.

Mr. Harold Bragg, program leader, was assisted by Mrs. Robert Hamilton with appropriate organ music by Mrs. Carl Smith.

The special offering at the meeting will be used both nationally and internationally to promote social welfare building programs to benefit children, youth and young business women.

Stork shower

given Mrs. Hitt

Mrs. Harold Hitt was honored with a stork shower last Tuesday in Our Lady of the Gulf Parish Hall. It was given by Mmes. Sheldon Seuzeneau, Jr., Donald Compreta, Ronald Artigues, Robert Fayard, H. Stockman, Henry Monti, Jr., Yvette Anderson, Carl Bandier, E. V. Alme and Sam Noto and Ursula Favre and Frances Fauchet.

A color scheme of pink and blue was used on the mantle, which held an arrangement of stuffed animals, and on the table centered with a cake iced in white trimmings with booties in pink and blue icing.

In 1964 the population was .68 per cent of the state and reflected a decline of 1.68 per cent from the year before.

Five named as chamber nominators

Admiral E. F. Beyer, H.H. Shattuck, Mrs. Wayne Ducomb, David McDonald and David Treutel were named by Hancock County Chamber of Commerce president Wilson Webley and approved Oct. 16 as the chamber's new nominating committee.

Admiral Beyer will be chairman of the committee whose duties are to select candidates for the board of directors.

In other business the board endorsed two issues recommended by the Mississippi Economic Council program for better government in Mississippi, the equalization of property tax assessments and improvement of the county road administration.

Others named to serve were Mmes. John T. Dearing, co-chairman, Mrs. E. C. Clark, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. C. S. Painter, mission action

chairman, Mrs. J. D. Green, social, Ruby Rotheberger, program, Mrs. Robert Wade, publicity and Mrs. Lucien Favre, membership.

Mrs. Clark gave the devotional, and Mrs. Hill conducted the business session and offered the closing prayer.

The board had already studied and endorsed programs forcement, county redistricting and a lower court recommendation.

Fire victim is county's 21st fatality

A Hancock County coroner's jury, composed of Copeland, Emilio Plaza, settled on verdict of death from burns after the body of a 49-year-old Loctown man was found in the smoldering ruins of his home about 11:30 p.m. last Sunday.

Hugh Washington Craft, a carpenter, lived alone in the small home adjacent to that of his mother, Mrs. Ralph Craft, a son, Carlton Ray and sister, Mrs. Ruby Lee. When passers-by informed the family that the building was in flames, the fire had already lit but gutted the house. He was taken by ambulance to McDonald Funeral Parlor in Picayune.

Funeral services were from the home of Mrs. Lee last Tuesday, with religious rites in Lee's Chapel No. 2, followed by burial in Corinth Cemetery.

Other survivors are his other son, Pvt. James A. Craft, stationed at Fort Knox, Ky., with the U.S. Army, a brother, J.L. Craft of Nicholson, two other sisters, Mrs. M. Pinchen of Slidell, La., and Mrs. M. Friereson of Picayune.

ROY GARDNER SHOPPED IN LOUISIANA, BUT DIED IN DEATH IN LOUISIANA

... am Roy Gardner of Waveland, Louisiana. Dave Sloan has been my friend for a long time. We used to go for a pick-up truck around shopping around North Louisiana. The prices I got were varied. Some high and some fairly reasonable. I decided to call Dave and ask him about a price. I saved over three hundred dollars by driving down here. I have known Terry Lane and worked for him in the past. Terry believes in giving everyone a fair price and the best service available. I wished all dealers felt this way.

grade, queen, and maid Margaret Taylor, 11th grade; Dora Jo Williams, ninth grade, standing, Paulette Whavers, 11th grade and Allen Lewis, seventh grade.

Teen Times

We've been hearing a lot about happenings, but until a week or so had no idea just what a "happening" happened to be. It's really quite simple: take 20-odd teenagers, turn them loose with soft drinks, TVs, etc., a pile of records and loud stereo, lots of room to dance, and you're in business.

This knowledge was gleaned from the combined farewell to Terri and Ken Juber who left Oct. 18 for Seattle and the celebration of David Hubbard's birthday, Oct. 14 at Catchie Crider's Grosvenor Place, with all guests pitching in bringing refreshments. There was even a floor show as Terri and Sarah Scruggs, appropriately costumed, performed most professional hula dances. If sound is any indication, the guests had a ball. Others in attendance were Richard and Randy Tracy, Clark and Gerry Ross, Gene Greenland, Debbie McCullough, Hiram Wheeler, Betsy Jacobs, Donnie Kern, Mike Evans, Connie Hanks, Dana Dean, Dave Burch, Michelle Juber, Chuck Lirette, Debbie Sick and Maureen Starni.

Another large weekend, ball-wise, but just in case this column has to be held for a week, due as always, to space shortage, we'll leave final scores for the sports page, and just mention the great half-time show presented by Bay High band in their gorgeous new uniforms. They performed under direction of Richard Ford, with Carla Biegelstein as drum major, aided by Becky and Debbie Rutledge's twin twirling. The featurettes, looking quite professional in new blue velvet costumes, were also quite professional in their contribution to the show.

Sorry we've been unable to give reports on shows and games at St. Stanislaus and Hancock North Central, but as all three local schools have mostly been playing on the same night, we've for more or less personal reasons, such as having a daughter in Bay High band, been unable to attend the games.

TALENT WINNER - Irene Cuevas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Cuevas, in first place in the Farm Queen's district talent show in Hattiesburg and is eligible in state competition in Jackson next month.

Still go slow

Now that the petitions to change Bay St. Louis' form of government to a city manager type have apparently gotten the signatures of more than 20 percent of the city's voters, it seems in line that the Board of Commissioners in that form of government. However, we are going in the same way. Reprinted below is a editorial on that form of government from the Winona Times. Winona. It sets forth the pros and cons of the city manager form of government. However, the last paragraph is that of the author of the original article and we repeat it.

"...the manager in any form of city government...

"There are several main pluses but they are like the pros in football. Any of them will work if you've got the good 'bosses' and when all will work without them."

There is another factor that should be considered. It would well be that, if Bay St. Louis adopted the city manager form of government, it would find that the majority of the commissioners was the most qualified person they could hire for the new job. Let's say let our dissatisfaction with City Hall be cause of the horrible road conditions. Let's say it's up a hill.

Russia minus

One of the alleged advantages of travel is said to be its broadening of the traveler's viewpoint. On the other hand, traveling can merely harden a preexisting attitude.

While we would deny any such allegation about ourselves, it is true that our recent visit to the Russian pavilion of Canada's Expo '67 we thought spoke as many flaws we kinda wanted to see. We visited the Russian pavilion under favorable circumstances - not quite the red carpet treatment Princess Margaret Rose got, but preferential treatment. Our newspaper group from the International Conference of Weekly Editorial Writers was split in four sections of 10 to 12 people, got to go to the head of the line and were shown other favors. Among the pavilions we visited was Russia's, as we stated above. Nationalist China's, and the Province of Ontario. Incidentally, the United States pavilion is from an exterior standpoint one of the most intriguing at the fair and the exhibit itself is no where near as poor as others have stated. Furthermore, as you leave you are greeted by Miss Georgia, and she's pretty as a peach. Great Britain also has a massive, but impressive pavilion with a show that is superior in braggadocio.

Getting back to the question in this editorial is the contrast we found between Russians, Taiwanese, and the Canadians from Ontario. The Russian exhibit was a good example of misleading propaganda, but well done. On the other hand, the Russian personnel were, at best, surly and their official policy was to steal it out of every U.S. dollar. (In Canada the U.S. dollar is worth $1.07 Canadian). Our observation about the Russians is based on the young lad who occupied the kiosk where you could purchase Russian stamps and a couple of recordings by the wailers at their bleak bar, our address in the restaurant and more specifically, the man they had guarding the rest room. This gentleman refused to let a lady in our party use the restroom until she had eaten dinner and had a stamp card to show she had paid for her meal. When finally she paid for the meal in advance in order to get the official pass, she found the ladies room to be in dull blue with one 40 watt light, no toilet tissue, no towels, etc.

In the preceding paragraph we forgot to state that the Russian prices were 25% above the prices for equivalent items elsewhere. The exact reverse was the case at Nationalist China's exhibit. The exhibit itself was mostly showing off products China produces and has none of the grandiose aspect that the U.S., Russia and England's exhibits have. But along with the exhibit they have a restaurant and a sidewalk cafe. At the cafe you got a super size eggroll (about three times the size of the frozen ones you buy here) for 50¢, with equivalent low prices for sweet and sour spare ribs, combination platter, '99¢, etc. You got all of this with a mile and if you had U.S. money, it was worth 81.07 or $1.09.

The Ontario pavilion was the last one we visited as a member of the NCWEW and we really remember very little about the exhibit. We were just plain dog gone tired by then. There is, however, one thing about the Ontario exhibit that rings clear as a bell. The Ontarians, in general, made you feel that they had been waiting all day for you to come by. Maybe, that the whole reason of their existence was to show you the courtesies of the evening. It made you just love them.

OVER TOP - Jackson M. Balch, manager, Mississippi Test Facility, left, shakes hands with Stephen Krull, manager Boeing Company and drive chairman for site Combined Agency.

drive campaign, after drive shot over $60,000 goal within first two weeks, Miss Torch, Diana Fritson, said drive had passed $86,600 figure by last Tuesday. Hancock County's share of amount collected to date is $12,512.

City Manager?

The Council Manager form of municipal government has become well established in over 2,000 places in the United States. In 1959, it became the most common form of government in all cities of over 10,000 population.

In the 25,000 to 50,000 population range 34 percent are under Council Manager government. This 34 percent contrasts with 35 percent for Mayor-Council, and 11 percent for Commission plan, 20 percent of all cities over 500,000 population use this system.

The greatest concentration of the Council Manager system is in the South, 635 southern local governments - a number three times greater than all Commission governed cities in the entire United States.

The Council-Manager governments is an imitation of the corporate form of business and banking organizations. The Council, in other words, acts as a board of directors, the mayor serves as chairman of the board, the manager becomes the president of the corporation, and of course, the citizens to carry the analogy further are the stockholders.

The Council's principal functions are to decide basic policies for the city and make these into resolutions and ordinances. Second to approve the budget and make the required tax levies and appropriations. Third, to appoint or dismiss, to supervise and give policy advice to the Manager.

While the Mayor as chairman of the board, is the titular head of the city for ceremonial purposes, and for the processes of executing papers, documents, etc., the more general duties of the Manager are to See that all laws and ordinance are enforced.

Exercise control over all departments.

Make recommendations to the Council concerning the affairs of the city.

Keep the council and the public advised on the city's financial condition and future needs.

Prepare and submit to the Council the annual budget.

Keep the public informed regarding the operation of the city.

These responsibilities would be at the pleasure of the Council and could be changed or altered in any manner they thought advisable.

Our readers write

Editor, Sea Coast Echo:

We have lately returned home after a wonderful month's holiday in Bay St. Louis, and feel that a letter in your paper is perhaps the best way to thank all the residents of the Bay for all their kindness to us during our stay. The charming politeness and extreme kindness and helpfulness of everyone we met, both in homes and shops and restaurants, was something that will long stay in our memories, and has fired us with a resolution to come again whenever circumstances (and financial) permit.

We were not able to get to all the homes to which we were invited, but only time prevented. And we hope we are, back in England with a greeting of rain, wind, and cold to catch us for your terribly horrible, trudging back, and shivering back. It will take us some time to become accustomed to the differences in temperature, but eventually our memory of Bay St. Louis makes us feel warm in heart if not in body. Americans don't seem to understand abroad while the English delight people to speak for her.

Hoping to the next time, then, and good wishes and the best of luck to the people of Bay St. Louis.

Merry Christmas

On A Limb

By Bruce

... WASHINGTON - Intelligence reports that success in crating Soviet anti-aircraft missile sites should be obtained upon Vietnam's incompetence.

The North Vietnamese have such a technique that the Russians have been caught in their trap.

Intelligence reports also caution that over Soviet-built jets doesn't mean that they are inferior. The North Vietnamese pilots simply are physical to withstand the strains of supersonic flight conditions.

Despite these factors, Hanoi and Haiphong are heavily defended cities in the world with exception of Moscow. Our losses have been over 1,000 sorties, three times greater than other North Vietnamese targets.

Air Force generals grumble privately that and multi-million-dollar planes would have been downed so long to cities.

Johns had recommended hitting strategic missile sites were installed.

Dean Rusk's decorum

Despite critical interpretations, Secretary of Defense model of diplomatic decorum, did not let it lashed out at critics of the Vietnam war. He re orders. President Johnson had instructed Rusk to

The President has been growing increasingly

The Defense Department isn't particularly

The decision was made last June, but has been of the Senate crackdown in arms sales abroad.

House conferees are still deadlocked over whether private $400 million to finance arms sales, the Pentagon is discreetly waiting until Congress takes before resuming shipments.

The supplies, ordered before the Arab-Israeli conflict, are to be sold to Israel and Jordan.

GOB bows to Detroit

The Republican Coordinating Committee, the policy-making body, has charged that President

Johnson's decision to policy lodges too much authority in the government. The committee demanded that air handled more by the states.

Yet it was the Republican members of the House Committee who insisted upon federal controls. The with help from a few Democrats, knocked a provision anti-pollution bill that would have permitted California more stringent standards.

The Republicans deserted their traditional stand, of course, because of pressure from the auto industry. The auto manufacturers want the federal to set and enforce the standards for all states.

They would have to install special devices

California.

In other words, the Republicans put the big ahead of their traditional party principles against the environment.

Cambridge intrigue

For several months, the State Department has been behind the scenes to win Cambodia's left-leaning

He had shown positive signs of disenchanted with communist neighbors. He accused them of infiltrating the country and interfering in its domestic affairs.

Then surprisingly, Peking turned the other cheek softly to the pink prince. Premier Chou En-lai

STRAP ADJUSTMENT — Getting assistance with combed rigging worn for Frosh Day, last Thursday at Hancock North Central, C. J. Saucier, right, wants all in order as encountering Marital seniors who demanded much of Florente Nightshade type is really Edwin Ladner nobody knew whether or not it was a wig.

WE THREE THINGS — Lacing sign out that seemingly no duty at Red Cross volunteer station, Larry Lind, reaches hand in anxiety, lest he be caught by roaming senior, acute but chicken-wit, with a washer to right are Edith Marie Star and Melva May, a la la.

THE BARON CAME OUT THE CHEVROLET BUT WILLIE SAUCIER AGAINST IT HE SAID I WANTED TO PAY.

Willie has always been the car that I preferred to own, for on a couple of occasions have bought other because of the difference in price. I would have had another brand again if it hadn't been for Mr. Herb and Gerry Lane Chevrolet. I was able to save a probable amount of money by trying the motto I have advertised "The only deals we miss are the ones I don't know about." They certainly proved that you do by shopping at Gerry Lane Chevrolet.

Hero of week

We had a Hero of the Week, but little holder could be Kolstad. He saved the life of a St. Louis man on Sunday. The almost victim was himself, but he managed to save a huge trailer truck that had rolled into his lane on U.S. 90, near Rouge, just before the start of the head-race. Tom Thomas is enjoying a leave at the visiting his son, Art and Bud in their new home in New Orleans. In the Navy, is stationed at Iowa, where he and Charlie Brown are the weekend at their Kell Street home. Daughter, Barbara, but we never can remember her married name, John, are expecting a playmate for little Art to arrive next week.

Fishing news

Tom Schaefer, who fished for the first time Sunday recuperating from his recidivism, and Jack Kramer turned home with a catch of trout weighing from four-six pounds, five large flounders and a whole mess of smaller trout. Although they started early, all were caught in 45 minutes between 11:30

NIGHTS AND SOUNDS ALONG THE WAY - Flushed as of small boys as they tele home, lay down with nets, etc., after daily foot-practiced leaves becoming colorful each time a heron comes along to bear on the breeze, the spic span look of local cemeteries as All Saints approaches and the uncrustified sound of tomorrow's buzzing in normal-jet Cedar Rest next door to the Echo.

Candy Strips

Start now class

The new class of Candy Strips started Oct. 16 at Hank General Hospital included Rita di Benedetto, Marsha Impetta, Sharon Gershaw, Lisa Jones, Jo Marta, Terry Trabell, Cheryl Nypo, Lisbet Phillips, Julie Stack, and Dorothy Young of Bay St. Louis.

Also Kay Guffy and Vicki Harp, Waveland; Madeline Carroll, Pass Christian; Antoinette Lombardo and Doris Davis, Lakeshore.
